

How Leaders Can Nourish Relationships

Like families, everyone benefits when team/board members work well together. Take a moment to check out the following ideas on which relationships should be nourished and how:

- √ Do your board members work well together?
- √ Do they willingly support each other's efforts and ideas?
- √ Do they have enough empathy to understand and help other team members do their jobs?
- √ Are they good listeners?
- √ Do they show appropriate gratitude and appreciation to team members with whom they work?
- √ Do your team members know what is expected of them?
- √ Do they take opportunities to learn new things?

Take the time and effort to cement your team members together in a good working relationship. You will reap many rewards.